

JAMES ROLLINS
Privacy Policy

Jamesrollins.com has adopted a set of Privacy Principles applicable to all its U.S.-based companies. Jamesrollins.com has implemented those Principles in this Privacy Policy, which describes how we collect, use and share personally identifiable information ("PII") we obtain from and about individuals located in the United States both online and off-line.

From time to time jamesrollins.com may revise this Privacy Policy to reflect industry initiatives or changes in the law, our PII collection and use practices, the features of our Web sites, or technology. Therefore, you should review it periodically so that you are up to date on our most current policies and practices. If jamesrollins.com materially changes its practices regarding the collection or use of your PII, your PII will continue to be governed by the Policy under which it was collected unless you have been provided notice of and have not objected to the change.

COLLECTION: COLLECTION OF PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION ("PII") BY JAMESROLLINS.COM

General. Jamesrollins.com collects personally identifiable information ("PII" -- that is, information such as your full name, e-mail address, mailing address or telephone number) only in order to create or enhance our relationship with you. When we collect PII from you it is because you are voluntarily submitting the information to us in order to participate in activities like sweepstakes, contests, games, surveys, forums, subscription registrations, in connection with content or suggestions you submit to us, chats or bulletin boards, or because you want us to furnish you with products, services or information. We may also obtain PII from reputable third parties.

Cookies. Cookies are small bits of information that the jamesrollins.com Web sites place on the hard drive of your computer. Cookies remember information about your activities on the site and enable the operator of the site to make your visits to our Web sites more enjoyable.

We use cookies in a variety of ways, such as allowing for easier logon and relating your use of our Web sites to non-personally identifiable information you have provided to us, so that we can limit the online ads we display to you to those we believe are consistent with your interests.

We may also use cookies or similar tools to relate your use of our Web sites to PII obtained from you or a reputable third party. For example, if you ask us to send you information about our upcoming products or promotions, cookie and/or click stream data about your activities on jamesrollins.com Web sites may allow us to limit the material we send you to the types of items we believe you will find interesting, based upon your activities on our sites and your preferences. However, if we wish to coordinate your personal and Web site activity information in this manner, we will obtain your express affirmative consent.

You can program your computer to warn you each time a cookie is being sent or to refuse cookies completely.

NOTICE: JAMESROLLINS.COM WILL PROVIDE YOU WITH NOTICE ABOUT ITS PII COLLECTION PRACTICES

When you voluntarily provide PII to jamesrollins.com, we will make sure you are informed about who is collecting the information, how and why the information is being collected and the types of uses we will make of the information.

At the time you provide your PII, jamesrollins.com will notify you of your options regarding our use of your PII, including whether we will share it with outside companies (See "Choice" below). This Policy describes the types of other companies that may want to send you information about their products and services and therefore may want to share your personal information, provided you have given jamesrollins.com permission to do so (See "Use" below).

Sometimes we collect personally identifiable information from consumers in manual format or off-line, such as a post card or subscription form. Providing detailed notice in those situations often proves impractical, so consumers will instead be provided with a short notice that describes how to obtain the full text of this Policy and other relevant information from us.

Jamesrollins.com may be linked to Internet sites operated by other companies. Some of these third party sites may be co-branded with a jamesrollins.com logo, even though they are not operated or maintained by jamesrollins.com. Jamesrollins.com may also carry advertisements from other companies. Jamesrollins.com is not responsible for the privacy practices of Web sites operated by third parties that are linked to our sites or for the privacy practices of third party or national Internet advertising companies. Once you've left jamesrollins.com via such a link or by clicking on an advertisement, you should check the applicable privacy policy of the third party or advertiser site to determine how they will handle any PII they collect from you.

CHOICE: JAMESROLLINS.COM WILL PROVIDE YOU WITH CHOICES ABOUT THE USE OF YOUR PII

Jamesrollins.com will not use the PII you provide to us for purposes different from the purpose for which it was submitted, or share your PII with third parties that are not affiliated with Jamesrollins.com (i.e., not part of the News America Group), unless we obtain your permission.

Jamesrollins.com's employees, agents and contractors must have a legitimate business reason to obtain access to your PII. Jamesrollins.com may share your PII with outside contractors or agents who help us manage our information activities (i.e., sweepstakes administration, order fulfillment, statistical analyses), but they may only use your PII to provide Jamesrollins.com with a specific service and not for any other purpose.

Jamesrollins.com may also enter into agreements with outside companies that possess the technology that allows Jamesrollins.com to customize the advertising and marketing messages you receive on our Web sites. Your non-PII and click stream data about your activities on our sites may be shared with these companies so this customization can be accomplished. COLLECTION AND USE OF PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION FROM CHILDREN UNDER 13

When a visitor to our Web site is under the age of 13, jamesrollins.com does not require the disclosure of more personally identifiable information ("PII") than is reasonably necessary for him or her to participate in an activity as a condition of such participation. Jamesrollins.com may use different types of PII submitted to our Web site by children under 13 in a variety of ways, which are described below. In each instance, we comply with the parental consent requirements of COPPA.

1. Use of a Child's Information by jamesrollins.com

* We may collect a child's e-mail address in connection with a contest, sweepstakes or game for the sole purpose of communicating with the child on a one-time-only basis (i.e., to contact a contest winner). This information will not be used to re-contact the child, and will be deleted from our records when the contest or game is over. Parental consent will be obtained before we send the winner a prize.

* We may collect a child's PII (including name, e-mail address, mailing address and phone number) for such activities as chats, forums, surveys, games, guestbooks, bulletin boards, requests for suggestions, content submissions, requests for products or services, or requests for additional information. In these instances we will initially collect only the child's name and online contact information and the e-mail address of the child's parent. Before using this information for any purpose, we will send the parent an e-mail that (a) informs the parent that we wish to collect and use the child's personal information and need the parent's consent to do so, and (b) provides the parent with a link to access to this Privacy Policy, which describes our information collection and use policies as required by COPPA. If the proposed use of the child's personal information does not involve disclosure to a third party, then jamesrollins.com will ask the parent to provide consent by return e-mail. Upon receipt of the e-mail consent, we will send the parent a confirming e-mail. If the proposed use of the child's PII involves disclosure to third parties, the e-mail we send to the parent will ask the parent either to (i) return by postal mail or fax a consent form that will be attached to the e-mail, or (ii) call a toll free number where consent can be given over the phone. If parental consent is not obtained by one of these methods within one week, jamesrollins.com will delete all of the child's and parent's PII from its records. In addition, parents can revoke a prior consent at any time.

* We may collect a child's name and e-mail address to the extent reasonably necessary to protect the security of this Site, to protect against liability or as required or permitted by law. Information collected for these reasons will not be used for any other purpose.

As noted in the Privacy Policy, our Web site may link directly to sites operated by third party advertisers, business partners and affiliated companies. Those sites, which are not controlled by Jamesrollins.com may collect PII from your child. Parents should therefore check the relevant site's privacy policy to understand how it collects and uses children's personal information. Jamesrollins.com will not share in any personal information obtained by a site from a child under the age of 13 unless that site follows the requirements of COPPA.

REVIEWING AND MAKING CHANGES TO PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE
INFORMATION COLLECTED FROM CHILDREN UNDER 13

After reviewing the relevant databases, we will confirm whether we have collected such information about your child.

Prior to disclosing the information we have collected, revoking a child's membership in a program or changing or deleting personal information collected, we require that you provide us with proof of your name and address, such as a valid driver's license, and proof that your child resides with you or is otherwise in your custody. Once we have determined such information is satisfactory, we will immediately disclose the information requested and revoke your child's membership and/or delete or modify your child's information in our database and/or refrain from collecting any other personally identifiable information from your child in the future, if you so request.
